We invite faculty, professionals, students, residents, and trainees to submit oral and poster presentations for Teaching Prevention 2025, the 87th annual conference of the Association for Prevention Teaching and Research (APTR).

Teaching Prevention 2025 provides a platform to showcase initiatives and share efforts across diverse institutions and health professions. Presenting offers the opportunity to build your professional network with academic, clinical, research, and community prevention professionals and contribute to the advancement of the field by sharing innovative approaches and impactful practices.
